HISTORY

Homemaker Clubs in ND in the 1920's through the North Dakota Agriculture College (now NDSU) Extension Service was a way to bring information on home economic issues to women throughout the state. The Cass County Thursday Homemaker Club officially started in 1955, when a group of women met to have coffee and decided to do something constructive. The club meets for education, entertainment, and socialization.

The photographs in this collection are primarily events such as an annual luncheon, the club's Christmas Luncheons, and travels to various establishments.
